

VERMONT CASTINGS DEFIANT®

Manufacturer's Comment

The Defiant is the original Vermont Castings stove. We designed and built it here in Randolph because we could find no other stove—either American-made or imported—that offers all the features and capabilities we feel are essential for anyone serious about heating with wood. Today, the Defiant's classic lines, thermal engineering principles, and quality construction are recognized as the standards of excellence in the woodstove industry.

With the Defiant, you and your family can enjoy the warmth and charm of an open fire as your parents or grandparents did with their old Franklin. But unlike the Franklin, by closing the doors the Defiant converts to a remarkably efficient airtight heater, which is designed to hold a fire for hours on a single loading.

Easy and economical operation are hallmarks of the Defiant. You'll appreciate the convenience of the automatic thermostat. You'll waste neither wood nor warmth as with ordinary updraft stoves. In our uniquely baffled firebox, combustion follows a horizontal flamepath which means only the bottom of the wood load burns while the logs above are dried and consumed as needed. And while many stoves allow combustible gases to escape up the chimney unburned, the Defiant uses primary and pre-heated secondary air to help ignite these gases for greater heating efficiency.

The firebox is big enough to handle over 70 pounds of logs up to 24 inches long. Loading is smokeless through either the large side door or the double fireplace doors.

Like all Vermont Castings stoves, the Defiant is made of the highest quality cast iron, poured and meticulously controlled in our own foundry here in Randolph. Each stove is built by hand and individually inspected for surface quality and for the airtight construction necessary for efficient burning.

And, because we believe that an efficient woodstove doesn't have to be an ugly black box, we designed the Defiant to reflect the classically simple lines of the 19th Century American architecture we find surrounding us here in Vermont.
