

HS TARM Type OT Multifuel Central Heating System

Manufacturer's Comment

In times of uncertain energy supply and demand, the HS Tarm Type OT multi-fuel boiler gives homeowners the choice and security of heating their house with wood, gas, coal, oil, or electricity. The Type OT boiler has large cast iron doors and a baseburning firebox for maximum convenience and efficiency when burning wood or coal, plus a separate firebox for burning oil or gas.

Although the Type OT boiler extracts maximum heat from wood or coal, no compromise of its performance on oil or gas has been made. The Type OT's separate firebox, wet-base design and large heat exchange surface give thermal efficiencies that equal or exceed those of any modern oil or gas fired boiler, thus saving money on fuel even when solid fuels are not being burned. The Type OT also comes equipped with a tankless coil constructed of large-diameter copper tubing and capable of supplying a high output of domestic hot water for kitchens and bathrooms.

The HS Tarm Type OT boiler is available in four sizes (OT 28, 35, 50, and 70) with heat output ranging from 72,000 BTU/hr. to 196,000 BTU/hr. Each unit is supplied with relief valves, high-limit control and an automatic draft regulator for the solid fuel firebox. The Type OT can be ordered equipped with shaker grates for burning coal or coke. A complete package of controls and accessories including an oil or gas burner is also available.

Comparable ASME approved models available.
